

TOUCHING THE FARM RIVER

LINDA CUMMINGS

JULY - DECEMBER 2014

Linear Veil III, 2012

Healing Arts Gallery | Smilow Cancer Hospital at Yale - New Haven
20 York Street | New Haven, CT | 06510

The 18 photographs in this exhibition have emerged from my photographic exploration of the Farm River in my kayak over four years. Wading into, listening, and watching its daily transformation inspires and guides my creative journey. Like a river, the Smilow Healing Arts Gallery is a passageway, constantly flowing with patients, doctors, staff, friends and family visitors. The gallery corridor carries people back and forth, along their journey from the world outside the hospital, to the world inside. Its long lingering passageway provides a transitional space to come into contact with art while also offering a quiet and necessary time to get one's bearings and gather one's thoughts and emotions along the way.

Hours: Monday - Sunday 10AM - 8PM. Visitors to the gallery may park at the Air Rights Garage. For complete collection of works and audio guide to exhibit, visit: www.lindacummings.com/touching

Touching the Farm River

Within Reach, 2014

Artist Statement

"Entranced by the shimmering screen of the river's surface, my eyes and hands reach into its tidal ebb and flow, wanting to touch the translucent edge between sky and water, here and there, perception and recognition. My camera casts a net to gather fleeting moments reflected on, and refracted in, this watery world surrounding me in my kayak. The Farm River mirrors the physical world through which it passes, just as my photographs mirror the movement of an emotional river running through me."

This exhibit is dedicated to Fred Cervin, poet, father, friend, and founder of the New Haven Bioregional Group
